

A two-glyph superscript x^{23} and a two-glyph subscript y_{45} sit in this sentence, as does an upright superscript e^{abc} and the subscript D_{min} that a narrower tolerance already admitted.

This paragraph carries no raised or lowered text at all. It is here to show that a baseline shift of a whole line still ends the line, which is the answer the same measurement gives in the other direction.